SUBJECT: SFMNP Policy Memorandum 2010-2
Income of 2010 Census Workers

TO: Regional Directors
Supplemental Food Programs

A question has been raised regarding whether to count the income received by individuals hired to conduct the 2010 Census when determining income eligibility for the Senior Farmers' Market Nutrition Program (SFMNP).

Section 17(b)(1) of the Food and Nutrition Act of 2008 gives the Secretary the authority to conduct certain demonstration projects. Based on this authority, the Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (SNAP) has issued a memorandum advising State agencies of the opportunity to participate in a demonstration project to exclude earned income of the temporary Census employees for 2010. In addition to SNAP, there are other Federal programs such as the Food Distribution Program on Indian Reservations, the Children's Health Insurance Program and Medicaid, that have legislative authority under their programs to allow State agencies to waive program requirements including counting the income of Census workers.

However, no Federal legislation exists/was enacted to require or allow the SFMNP to exclude the income received by individuals hired to assist in the 2010 Census. Therefore, when traditional income screening procedures are used (rather than automatic income eligibility based on participation in or certification for another means-tested program with a cutoff at 185 percent of the poverty income guidelines), such income must be counted in determining SFMNP income eligibility.

In an effort to assist new and current applicants hired for the 2010 Census with income screening procedures, SFMNP State agencies may wish to consider the income of the family during the past 12 months and the family's current rate of income to determine which indicator more accurately reflects the family's status. In general, the length of employment for Census workers is most likely no more than a few months.

SFMNP State agencies should direct any questions regarding this policy to the appropriate Food and Nutrition Service Regional Office.
